Ya shafi anta ash-shafi O Healer, You are the Healer
Ya kafi anta al-kafi O Sufficient One, You are sufficient
Allah The One

The first line is from a Hadith (saying of the Prophet Muhammad, here related by his wife 'Aisha):

*Whenever Allah's Apostle paid a visit to a patient, or a patient was brought to him, he used to invoke Allah and say:
'Take away the disease, O the Lord of the people! Cure him as You are the One Who cures (ash-shāfi). There is no cure but Yours, a cure that leaves no disease.'*

Both shafi and kafi are wasifas (the so-called Beautiful Names, qualities of the One) that cannot be found in the traditional lists of 99 Beautiful Names. They are generally called the healing wasifas.

Shafi means the Healer.

Kafi is translated as 'that part that is needed now', so the remedy of medicine. Kafi comes from the root KFY, which has the following connotations: to be enough, to be sufficient, to meet all requirements, to protect, shield from something, to save from something. This leads to translations as Sufficient One, Saving One, Protector, Shield.

In his prayers and Invocations to the Absent Healing Ritual, Hazrat Inayat Khan often uses kafi in the translation of sufficient or all-sufficient.
